THE CHINESE SITUATION
should demonstrate, even to the government of the United States, the importance of the flying machine in war.
Hand-to-hand fighting and long distance cannon fighting on the ground would be child's play for the Chinese. They might kill one million or five million Chinese; that wouldn't make much difference.
But war from the air would make a difference. And it would make absolutely unimportant the great numbers that might be put into a Chinese army. Half a dozen eagles in the air would have nothing to fear from fifty million sheep on the ground. A few hundred flying machines equipped with explosive bombs and poison gas, could bring to reason even a country as great in area and population as China.

That's another reason why the United States should keep out of any Chinese war. WE HAVEN'T ANY FLYING MACHINES. And Russia, which could quickly fly to China's assistance, has plenty of flying machines. Japan has them also, knows how to use them, keeps on building them, hires the best European fliers and buys the best European machines in addition to building her own. She knows she must rule in the air if she wishes to continue the ruling power in Asia.

We in America don't know much of anything, except that we like to keep prosperity and get a little more money if possible.
One of these days, President Coolidge and his magnificent army and navy should make a note of it, fliers from another country may change our program suddenly.

The head of the last Russian Czar, killed by order of the Bolsheviks, is dead. The crown that he wore, worth many millions, decorated by diamonds and pearls of enormous size, recently was offered for sale with other of the Romanoff jewels in the United States.
A few years ago when the Czar was murdered the thought of buying his jewelry would have been called sacrilege, compromising with murder. Several years make a difference.

Fifty years hence no one would object to the sale. The French Republic owns magnificent jewels once belonging to Louis XVI, whose head was chopped off by the beloved subjects. No one would question the right of the French to sell those jewels now if they chose. After all, the Czar, while he had the power to do as he chose with his subjects, sent them into Siberia, beating them to death with the knout. When they got the chance they did as they chose with him. Fifty years hence turn to page 16, column 4.

Mrs. Rose Sacco and Miss Leslie Vanover, sister, sorrow, who have been almost inseparable companions since the arrival of the latter from Italy, have parted because of a disagreement. QUITS LAW TO BE PRIEST AFTER 'MIRACLE' CURE

Firmly believing a miracle saved his life during a recent illness, Robert J. White of Watertown, well-known lawyer and for a year an assistant district attorney of Middlesex County, has resigned from office and is forsaking law for the priesthood.

He plans to start his studies immediately at the Catholic University in Washington. White, who is a graduate of Harvard Law School, has also resigned as legislative counsel for the American Legion and as an officer in several other civil and war veteran organizations.

He is thirty-four years old and left law school to enter service in the World War. He suffered wounds which made a serious surgical operation necessary about a year ago. Following this his condition became worse and it appeared as if death was approaching.

It was then that friends spoke of a miracle cure and he was cured.

MRS. SACCO QUILTS MISS VANZETTI AFTER QUARREL OVER ASHES

Boy Chief Witness

For Slaying of Paymaster

WORLD FLIERS AT BELGRADE FOR NIGHT

Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti no longer agree on the question of the disposition of the ashes of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Mrs. Sacco favors the plan of displaying the ashes of the executed men in the various cities of this country and also in Europe. Miss Vanzetti, on the other hand, is known to be opposed to any further demonstrations in behalf of her brother and desires to take her ashes home with her to Italy. She is opposed to leaving half of them in this country, as has been proposed.

The break between the two women has brought discussion to the table of the defense committee, and as a result a police guard was placed to keep over the ashes of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The copper wire containing the ashes remains in the office of Joseph Langone, Hanover street undertaker, who announced he would not give them up without the written consent of Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti.

Fearful that an attempt might be made by some unauthorized person to remove the ashes, it was thought advisable to place a guard over them, until the difficulty is straightened out.

POLICE ON GUARD

At the same time the police at both Boston and New York are much interested in learning what disposition it is to be made of the ashes. Boston authorities have received a request from New York for every detail obtainable, and Superintendent of Police Michael J. Crowley is curious on his own account.

In consequence the police guard serves a double purpose, namely, protection of the ashes from either unauthorized persons, and to guard knowledge of their disposition. Undertaker Langone pointed out that under the law he must give the ashes on demand to the nearest of kin, or someone authorized by them.

"If Mrs. Sacco and Miss Vanzetti ask for them," he said, "I will be forced to turn over the ashes to the two women."

A majority of the defense committee are said to favor dividing the ashes into four urns, two to be turned over to the families and the other two to be interred in a Massachusetts cemetery.

There is said to be a minority of the defense committee members who endorse the attitude of Mrs. Sacco for a tour of the larger cities in this country and Europe with the ashes of the two men.

MISS VANZETTI ILL

As the situation stands at present, Mrs. Henderson admits that Mrs. Sacco will not accompany Miss Vanzetti back to Italy. While Mrs. Sacco is in New York, Miss Vanzetti is at the home of a friend in Plymouth.

Mentioning the ashes remain in the custody of Undertaker Langone, although defense committee members very indignantly that they are being held until the funeral bill of $700 is paid. They say that the books of the committee are being audited and when this work is finished it will show there is plenty of money to pay all bills.

Plans for a memorial to contain the ashes of Sacco and Vanzetti are being considered by the defense committee. It also has been suggested that the plans call for bronze urns to contain them.

Mrs. Henderson is quoted in New York as saying that if the defense committee continues to stall, she will favor the building of a labor temple in gested religion might do what medical science had failed to accomplish. A priest was called. The clergyman took him the authenticated holy relic of St. Theresa, the "Little Flower." Following application of the relic and prayers, White's condition was improved and he was soon restored to health.

He is convinced that a miracle saved his recovery and he hopes to repay with a life of self-sacrifice in the priesthood. This desire was strengthened by the recent death of his mother, Mrs. Mary White.

While himself is enjoying a short vacation in Italy, his brother, Edward, Watertown business man, told the story today.

It was really a miracle how, when Robert appeared to be nearing his end and the priest came with the relic of the "Little Flower," and prayers were offered, he began to get better," he said.

"Robert entered Harvard Law School after leaving school, but left his law studies to enter service during the World War. Wounds made a serious surgical operation necessary about a year ago. Following the operation his condition became very much worse."

"A priest was called. I think it was Father Kelle of Roxbury. He brought the holy relic of the 'Little Flower.' Following his application and prayers we saw a change for the better."

"Robert was suffering from an abscess. The following day after application of the holy relic the abscess broke and from then on Robert's recovery was rapid. He is now in good health and feels his cure was a miracle. He is now in the process of repaying by devoting the remainder of his life to the church."

"He is at his summer home at our country place in the winter. He intends to go to Washington next month to begin study for the priesthood."

HELD IN PROBE OF WEST END FIRES

Cambridge Police Inspector P. Ready is shown escorting two of the three men arrested in connection with the incendiary fires from headquarters at Cambridge.

THREE HELD FOR QUICK TRIAL OF SETTING FIRES

All three men pleaded not guilty to the charges. Downey was committed to jail when he could not furnish bail of $1,000. The others were released in bail of $100 each, but Stevens was immediately re-arrested by Special Officers O'Neil and Donohue of the Joy street station in connection with police investigation of three Boston fires that occurred almost simultaneously with those in Cambridge.

Meanwhile, the Cambridge police were looking for a white mongrel dog, with collar trace, which is owned by Downey, son of a retired Boston fireman and nephew of District Chief Thomas H. Downey of the Hub fire department.

The dog, according to the police, answers the description of one seen with the incendiary on Sunday afternoon.

Inspector Ready, James L. Downey R. W. Grealoux, and two other men were shown in the photograph.

The authorities, meanwhile, are reviewing evidence in numerous armed truck holdups staged within the last few years, on the theory that Graham may have been mixed up with them.

TO BRING BACK SACCO MASKS

New York, Aug. 29 (U.P.)—More police than sympathizers appeared at yesterday's Canino, Ninth street and Second avenue, today, when for a brief time, the death masks of the executed radicals, Sacco and Vanzetti, were placed on view.

When the doors were closed only ten persons were waiting, eight of them being women, and with their carriages. The police detail numbered 10.

Secretary Felloni of the Boston defense committee, in charge of the masks, said he would return with them to Boston tonight. Inquiries came as to be made from the masks.

Today's balm was in striking contrast to last night's demonstration, when 10,000 persons at United square heard Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers speak and then made off as if it were a riotous Canino. Police rode into the throng, dispersing it. One man carrying a red flag was arrested.

Another crowd, estimated by police at 4,000, had gathered near the Canino and when police commenced to disperse were ignored, mounted officers charged, and the crowd broke up, to the accompaniment of jeers and hoots.

Girl Who Pierced Most Vital Organ While at Play Will Survive

The scientific marvels of the X-ray and the deft hands of two Josiah B. Thomas Hospital surgeons have saved the life of a five-year-old girl whose heart was completely penetrated by a needle.

On her cot in Peabody Hospital, Mary Zastowsky freely smiles today and her mother, Mrs. Lawrence Kelly, is confident of her recovery. The little girl was slowly asphyxiated by the tracheostomy of the needle, when the young father of Dr. Foster found it at the heart had been by his inspection.

While she was playing at the kitchen table when Dr. S. C. Tucker found the needle in the child's heart and the surgeon's knife was doing its work. Dr. Foster found it at the heart had been by his inspection.

While surgeons are always making use of the X-ray, it is only in rare cases that the public appreciates their wonders. Little Mary was rushed here, the X-ray pictures taken in seconds and she was placed on the operating table, and kept under ether.

Dr. Foster quickly probed the incision, his fingers searching the spot. Please Turn to Page 4, Column 4.

MAN BURIED BY LUMBER PILE

Buried beneath a pile of lumber, weighing more than a ton, when a wheel of his wagon jammed in the steel car tracks and overturned on Water street, Danvers, today, Felix Latski, 35, is at the Peabody Hospital suffering a broken ankle and internal injuries.

Latski is employed as a driver for the Calvin Putnam Lumber Company of Danvers. With lumber stacked high on his wagon, he was driving along Water street when the accident happened. He was thrown from his seat and completely buried beneath the pile when the wagon turned over.

Miss Eva Boulay, who witnessed the accident from a window of her home nearby, telephoned for aid and then rushed out to render any aid she could.

Several men passing by joined the rescue squad and extricated the injured driver after 20 minutes of strenuous efforts.

15,000 OUT IN

Chicago, Aug. 30 (A.P.)—Virtually all Chicago movie houses remained dark today as nearly 400 theatres joined in a struggle with union labor.

Fifteen thousand persons—operators, musicians, writers and stage hands—were without jobs and nearly 40,000 daily movie fans were deprived of a place to go by the dispute over two union movie operators which brought about the row. Theatre owners estimated their total loss daily during the trouble would amount to $100,000.

The closing of the theatres followed a decision of the Chicago Employees Association to discharge all union motion picture machine operators and suspend employment of all other help as a reprisal to a strike called by the union operators in Orpheum circuit theatres. The strike was called because one of the theatres, adopting a new policy, had cut the staff of operators from four to two.

COUNCIL SEATS
SOUGHT BY 76

A grand scramble at the polls this fall for the 12 offices of city councillors is indicated as the result of 76 aspirants, including one woman, filed their nomination papers.

Mayor Nichols' name was in 26 of the 12 wards and will furnish the hottest fight, with eight candidates already in the lists.

The first candidate to file for the place left vacant by the death of President John J. Hefferman last week is William J. Donahoe of Ward 13, Brighton.

The only woman yet entered for a seat in the City Council assembly is Mrs. Carrie F. Sheehan, former assistant in the election department, who, with Mrs. Christina L. Page, was the first official at City Hall to be removed by Mayor Nichols, following his inauguration. Mrs. Sheehan will contest the seat now held by Councilman Thomas H. Green of Charlestown.

Five candidates have filed for the School Committee, including three present members, Frederick L. Boston, Francis C. Gray and William G. O'Brien.

COUNCIL CANDIDATE

MRS. CARRIE F. SHEEHAN
Charlestown woman and former city employee who will oppose Councilman Thomas H. Green at the coming election. Mrs. Sheehan was discharged by Mayor Nichols almost immediately after he assumed office.

SICKNESS MAY DELAY SCHOOL

Agitation for postponing the opening of public schools in Norwell and Hanover, because of an outbreak of infantile paratyphoid, was frowned upon today by Dr. Lawrence L. Stannard, director of the Division of Communicable Diseases of the State Department of Public Health.

With the reporting of seven cases of the disease in the two towns, board of health officials, selection and school committees have called a joint meeting with a view to deferring the opening of the schools.

Five of the cases in the newest batch, Dr. Stannard said, were from Norwell, four of them in one family.

Dr. Stannard added the department understood there was no local resident physician in Norwell, but State physicians are now on the scene.

JAMAICA PLAIN MAN ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

Fully clothed and lying on a couch in the city of his home, 10 Pond street, Jamaica Plain, with gas pouring from an open jet, the body of Andrew H. Briggs, sixty-year-old Boston business man, was found today.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary who performed an autopsy, declared death was due to suicide. Mr. Briggs had been working over business affairs, police said.

The body was discovered when Mrs. Briggs smelled gas and summoned John Francis of No. 17 Pond street. He found the door to the dining room locked and it open, revealing the body lying on a couch. While gas poured from an open jet.

Mr. Briggs was head of the Andrew H. Briggs Trading Company.

DANVERS FIRE DRIVES OUT 25 FAMILIES

Danvers, Aug. 29.—An incendiary fire which broke out this morning drove five families from their homes and threatened the destruction of 10 large factories and a laboratory in which explosive chemicals were stored, early today destroyed the car barns of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railways Company here.

Sparks and heavy, burning embers were carried to the roofs of dwellings for blocks on either side of the burning pyre and help had to be summoned from the Beverly and Peabody fire departments to check the spread of the flames.

The car barns were unoccupied. They were abandoned some months ago by the company and were lightly loaded and boarded so that the Danvers police are convinced the fire was of incendiary origin.

When the flames arrived on the scene the entire interior of the structure was in flames and immediately the forces of the firemen were bent to saving surrounding property.

In the rear of the barn is the Crane Experimental Laboratory, a long, low one-story building, in which chemicals are stored. Three streams were kept playing on this building as the firemen feared a terrific explosion should the fire reach that structure. Twice the roof of the building caught fire but the flames were extinguished before the interior of the structure was reached.

Adjoining the car barns are the buildings of the American Toy Company and the Tracy Shoe Company. Both these structures were threatened for a time, and home streams were kept playing on them.

Excited members of the families whose homes were threatened by the constant shower of sparks and burning embers played garden streams on the roofs of their dwellings and a dozen incipient fires were checked in this manner. The home of George Wallis on High street caught fire and a section of the roof was burned away.

LAW'S LONG ARM REACHES WEISS IN $100,000 PLOT

New York, Aug. 30 (A.P.)—A vein of eight months through the United States and Europe found Morris Weiss, president of the defunct United Foreign Exchange, Inc., back in New York for arraignment today on charges of negotiating a $100,000 international exchange advance. Weiss was arrested after police traced him from America to France and Germany, thence to California and back here. He was charged with grand larceny following complaints of a score of persons, eight of them in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut. The principal complaint was Joseph Albritton, a sculptor, who said he had been evicted of foreign money with an exchange value of $12,000.

SAYS HE WAS LASHED BY EIGHT MASKED MEN

Akron, O., Aug. 29 (A.P.)—Alfred Harris, 55, of Kent, staggered into the county jail here today and reported that he had been lashed with knotted ropes by a band of eight masked men. Two years ago Harris fled a protest against the methods of the Kent city authorities in investigating a murder case there.

The engineer, Byron H. Sellers of Somerville, Mass., was painfully burned about the head and lower limbs. Miss Margaret Pierce, society girl of Haverford, Pa., and Mrs. Harold Huntington of Winnetka, Ill., a sister of J. L. Huntington of Chicago Daily News, escaped with slightly injured hair. PLANE OKLAHOMA HOPS

FROM EL PASO FOR N. Y.
The monoplane "Oklahoma," piloted by Bennett Griffin, and navigated by Al Henley, left here this morning enroute to New York, where the plane will enter the New York-Spanish air derby.

LEWINE PICKS ENGLISH PILOT FOR U. S. HOP

Cranwell, Eng. Aug. 30 (U.S.N.S.)—The Columbia, piloted by Capt. Hinchcliffe and Charles A. Levine as passenger, arrived here from Cranwell at 6 o'clock tonight, London time.

Cranwell, Eng. Aug. 30 (A.P.)—Charles A. Levine announced here this afternoon that Captain W. G. Hinchcliffe had been definitely selected to pilot the transatlantic monoplane Columbia back to the United States with Levine as his companion. "The start will be made from Cranwell, Lincolnshire," declared the captain.

Hinchcliffe is one of Great Britain's most experienced aviators. He is a veteran of the World War, served in the air, and has 8,000 flying hours to his credit.

Tall and slender, he presented a picturesque figure, and he is known as a most skilled pilot. He was the first of the eye through an injury received in aerial combat with a German plane during the war.

He received his first pilot's license in 1912 and now is a special pilot for the Imperial Airways, who have granted him three years' license.

"Door" Kinkadee, the Wright expert, is to assist in the preparation for the flight.

The start for Cranwell was made after a trial flight over Cranwell. "I am going back across the Atlantic right away," Levine said. "No, not today, but perhaps tomorrow."

The Columbia will be left at Cranwell, Levine and Hinchcliffe returning to Cranwell tonight in another plane. Levine's family is expected to arrive from Paris tonight.

Mrs. Levine Settles With Drouhin for 100,000 Francs
Paris, Aug. 30 (A.P.)—Mrs. Charles

Pays Levine Bill

Wife of owner of the Columbia, who settled with Maurice Drouhin for 100,000 francs, cancelling his contract to pilot her husband in the plane to America.

A. Levine, acting for her husband, who flew his transatlantic monoplane Columbia to London yesterday, went to Le Bourget field today and paid Maurice Drouhin the 100,000 francs due him under the terms of the contract by which he was to have piloted Levine across the Atlantic.

The French aviator took the money, saying: "I accept it because I have not the courage to argue any more."

His contract with Levine ended, Drouhin immediately began negotiating with another American who flew to fly this time Miss Mabel Holt. (Miss Holt has been reported offering large sums of money to various aviators for an opportunity to make a transatlantic flight.)

When Drouhin told her he would like to make the transatlantic trip but had no machine to fly with, he is said to have replied: "Wait! get some money and a good trip from Paris to New York and back."

2 Canadian Planes May Start Atlantic Race Today
London, Ont. Aug. 30 (U.S.N.S.)—The start of two Canadian attempts to cross the Atlantic Ocean in non-stop flights depended today upon favorable weather reports, with the possibility of a race causing interest.

C. G. Schiller, pilot of the "Royal Windsor," and Paul E. Wood, navigator, hoped to be able to take off about 4 o'clock this afternoon for a Windward-Hatteras flight.

Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James McCall, crew of the "St. John's Carling," who were forced back to their first attempt yesterday, were ready to start again for London as conditions permitted.

FOR OLD GLORY HOP TODAY

Roosevelt Field, N. Y. Aug. 30 (U.S.N.S.)—Scores of workmen and engineers worked on the runway here today in an effort to reconstruct it for the hop of Old Glory, the monoplane sponsored by William Randolph Hearst. With a west wind predicted for this afternoon, it was believed that the start for Rome would be made late today.

Laborers worked on the runway with scrapers, rakes, and rollers, while mechanics stood by with drums of gasoline to burn on the ground and dry it out.

Lord Bertaud and Henry Dewitt Hill, pilot of Old Glory, directed the work. They ordered their rakes for the flight started in the plane at 11 o'clock this morning.

"We look for the west wind today," said Bertaud. "The moment it springs up, we will start. It will blow throughout the night but have much toward drying the runway."

New Report in Brazil
Revives Hope for Redfern
Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 30 (U.S.N.S.)—Hopes were revived here today that Paul Redfern, missing Georgia-Brazil solo pilot, may still be alive.

Government and municipal authorities continued their efforts to verify a report reaching Paris from Brazil, stating that Redfern, resembling the "Port of Brunswick" had been sighted near the mouth of the L'Espresso, about 100 miles from the northern Brazilian border.

Another unconfirmed report had been received before that Redfern's plane was sighted over the delta of the Graciosa river.

In an effort to determine the authenticity of these reports, the National Geographic Society has dispatched its stations in Venezuela and Guiana, and definite word was anxiously awaited.

Redfern is long overdue. Some observers expressed the belief that the missing aviator may have been forced to land at some isolated spot in the Brazilian jungles, and is slowly trailing his way toward civilization.

Washington, Aug. 30 (U.S.N.S.)—American consuls at Georgetown, British Guiana, and Paramaribo, Guyana, and Para, Brazil, in addition to Caracas, Venezuela, have been instructed by the State Department to search for lost aviator Redfern.

HEART IMPERFORATED GIRL IS SAVED

Issues which cover the heart. The increased heart beat was noted with keen hearing for the scratchy noise of the needle as it was lifted up and down.

Dr. Tucker marked her heart before X-rays were made to get the position of the needle. These "landmarks" showed the position at once so that the surgeon could measure the hole by the use of triangles and then probe with skilled fingers to the desired depth.

4 INCHES IN HEART.
"With little Mary we made two hearts, one showing the needle in the picture taken looking through the chest to indicate the position of the needle, looking through the side in order to get depth and the penetration of the needle.

Although the needle was completely under the skin blood showed showing where it had entered her body and had penetrated her heart four inches.

When an accident would have meant sure death to an adult. The shock would have killed a grown-up. But with children, wonders are done. Mary was in bed in three or four days, romping about again.

AMERICANS TO GUIDE NEWS CONTROL

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Editor of Universal Service.

Genoa, Aug. 29.—The outbreak of the first international Press Conference, under the direction of the League of Nations, which has just adjourned, was the first that there exists a domination by the American group over the only vital topic which was discussed. Indeed, that topic was the arena for a vigorous fight among the American delegates.

Kent Cooper, for the Associated Press, and Karl Beckel, for the United Press Association, led the fight for the establishment of private property rights in news. In this they had the solid support of European official press associations.

M. Koenigsberg, president of International News Service and Universal Service, led the opposition.

When an impasse was reached the conference adjourned to permit a compromise to be found. This was finally effected by the adoption of the International News Service proposal as a substitute for the League draft. Following the line of the United States Supreme Court decision protecting the collection and distribution of news under regulations against unfair competition.

Thus a channel was opened for operating the League of Nations with the guidance of American jurisprudence and American enterprise without involving America in entanglements.

PLEA FOR 'REAL PEACE ARMY'

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29 (A.P.)—A plea for reasonable military preparedness and for a peace-time establishment susceptible of rapid and efficient expansion in case of war, was made today by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff, in an address at the Twenty-ninth national encampment of the Spanish War Veterans.

Recalling the confusion and disorganization which followed the declaration of the Spanish and World Wars, General Summerall said that the conflict had taught Americans the "lesson that the implements and forces of defense cannot be improvised on the moment, that the man with the rifle must be backed by far more than his own individual patriotism and courage."

The 1920 national defense act, designed to assure an adequate peace-time military establishment "is not perfect, by any means," General Summerall said. "But we are ever moving towards perfection."

The act is "no gesture or hostility or aggression," he added, "it is what the title proclaims—an act to promote the national defense. It serves to ward off, not invite, war, for with nations as with mankind, only the weak invite aggression."

"Ours is a busy citizenry. Our people, as we pass further from their meager, are, with the business of the day preoccupied in mind, prone to pay little attention to their possibilities and probabilities," he declared.

"Upon the never ceasing vigilance of patriotic organizations of former service men, such as the Spanish War Veterans, depends for a great part the nation's safety."

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY EVENTS

Boston Horse Lovers Kept on Jump Getting Ready for Autumn Shows Around New England

AUTUMN'S HORSE SHOW ROUND KEEPS initially on the go as Boston horsemen show superior knowledge of fine horseflesh put him right in the front rank as judge. The Samuel J. Shaw of whom I speak, knows pleasantly to the many as gentle "Sam" Shaw, owner of equine blue bloods and various handsome turnouts, who possesses a canny judgment of high stippers and in seven States, Mr. Shaw, having polished off judging at Cohasset and Solihua with precision and dispatch, is summoned to Buffalo to judge saddle classes in Erie County's Horse Show.

ASSOCIATED WITH MR. SHAW AS CO-JUDGE is a second veteran of many a landmark race, no other than Samuel Taylor, who has guided that fine old publication, "Rider and Driver," through its long and illustrious service. Both these "Samuels" have hung up to their everlasting credit many a close decision calling for the nicest discrimination. Mr. Shaw's selection of Paul Moore's "Pippin" as the finest American bred hackney in the country has been heartily seconded, even when this marvel appeared in the ring against such equine aristocrats as "Kilgilt Commander" and "Charm."

MR. SHAW WILL BE DOING HIS RING DUTIES at Buffalo until September 3. Then he breezes over for the Upridge Horse Show, September 16 and 17, where he again is summoned to be judge, and where he was a judge two years or so ago at the first Upridge Horse Show. Later, by a few days, comes that fine sporting event, the Eastern States Show, at Springfield, interesting Mr. Shaw, as it does so many other horsemen along the Eastern seaboard. All of which carries but one regret, that Mr. Shaw is not able to take in the Newport Horse Show, the brief society event of Newport's closing season.

IN NEWPORT ONE HEARS THE NAME "VANDERBILT" in frequent connection with the Newport Horse Show. Young Mr. William H. Vanderbilt may hold the ribbon over a awaking four from the couch "Venture," made famous in former fabled coaching days by Alfred Vanderbilt. And it is quite certain that the handsome Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, Jr. (Mrs. Vanderbilt), following the family predilection for fine horseflesh, will show some of her interesting string.

SPIRITED SPORTSWOMAN THAT SHE IS, MRS. CHURCH seems to much of the "schooling" herself. Mounted on a pretty golden brown pony, with sweeping mane and tail, Mrs. Church is a picture of dash and viriditas with cropped hair flying as she gallops over the immense lawns at Dudley Farm. She now has four horses in her stables, I believe. The title Reginald Vanderbilt's famous stallion, "Fortitude," passed to Mrs. Church's possession a year or two ago, thus carrying on family tradition, and she has acquired the pretty "Clipsman" storenment, together with others.

WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT, of course, being son to Alfred Vanderbilt, came by inheritance into a handsome string and magnificent stables at Oakland Farm. Now Mrs. Church has Dudley Place, boasting enormous stables and a wide stretch of many acres just exactly fitting for the beginning of another famous Vanderbilt string of horses. So it seems to be the present generation that revives and brings to show ring and coaching parades some of the brilliant bygone days when Vanderbilts horses and Vanderbilts

Miss Beal is one of the ultra set about town whose interest in the Junior Division of the Society is of the heart and hand (and purse, one may add) and not merely a superficial passion for a leisure hour. It is a very splendid work and Society may well be proud of its part.

HAIL ENGINEER HERO IN WRECK OF CRACK FLYER

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 29 (A.P.)—Ed Hunter, Altoona engineer, hailed as a hero today as the hero of the Broadway Limited wreck yesterday near Gallatin tunnel.

When the crack flyer was wrecked, Hunter, engineer on the second locomotive, dragged himself from the big engine, rescued his crewman, Emory Hartman, and then rushed to the rear of the wreck where he charged a freight train before it could plough into the pile-up. When the train jumped the tracks and plunged over a 250 foot hill.

Hunter, with acids on his entire body, was reported in fair condition.

Hartman, his arms and legs broken, was in a critical condition, doctors said.

BLACK FOREST TROUT With Sauerkraut Delight Walker

Says Registrar Should Get Applicant's Record Before Issuing License
Replying to the charge of Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin that he had disregarded valuable suggestions for disposing of accused drunken drivers, Judge Robert Valcott of the East Cambridge District Court today passed the blame back to Goodwin. Judge Valcott's statement follows:

Scores of persons witnessed the thrilling rescue of two children from drowning off Wollaston beach today after a frail canvas boat, which they were paddling, suddenly capsized about 100 yards from shore. Geraldine Ripley, nine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ripley, of No. 114 West Elm avenue, Wollaston, and Teddy Nelson, her cousin, of No. 144 West Elm avenue, were the children whose screams for help attracted John H. Ward, 23, of No. 9 Sachem street, Wollaston. Fully clothed, Ward plunged into the water and swam to spot where the boy and girl were about to sink. Grasping a child under each arm he swam, using his legs only, toward shore. Capt. Frank Vineau, a life guard stationed at the beach, went to Ward's assistance and helped him at the children's ashore, where they were given first aid treatment and taken to their homes. Apparently none the worse for their experience.

Joseph W. Farrell Induces Court to Return Furniture Pending Suit for Divorce
The Farrell furniture in Medford is going into a storeroom and the only person that will move it will be the moving man. This disposition of the effects quarrelled over by Joseph W. Farrell and his wife, Mrs. O. Viola W. Farrell, was made by Judge C. in Superior Court on a bill in suit brought by the husband. Farrell, who on defending a separate support suit brought by his wife last Spring, testified her "guts and stomach-rupture-in-law" reason for their breakup was all wrong. He charged she had kept secret from him the existence of her 15-year-old son by a previous marriage and petitioned the court for a temporary injunction against his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. Grace Vincent.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Salient Points of the Bidding

West doubles South's Heart bid informally to gain some bidding. Full out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy." I, as though all four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. East's decision to return the second round of spades to partner in Diamonds was based on sound reasoning. If West had a singleton or void in Diamonds, the chances favored his saving length and strength in Clubs. Affected to be held in reserve for a secondary bid. West must have at least five Spades, to the King and therefore South can have but one and if East returns to Clubs immediately and it is taken by West then South will have lost the lead Spades and finesse and obtain a valuable Club diamond. East therefore takes the opportunity to bid Clubs through the Declarer.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problem. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Braves Will Send Hugh McCulligan After Cincy in Today's Wigwam Game

The Braves are good against the good clubs, but when they get down into their own class they do not show the stuff. They looked like the greatest club in baseball playing the Cubs and Pirates, but the Reds have something on them.

The natives have been adding any chance to get into fifth place with Cincinnati is here, and will probably have to win their two remaining games to hang onto the sixth rung.

There are single pictures this afternoon and tomorrow, and the boys may have a chance to look at some right handed pitching. That will be a welcome relief, for the Reds have been pitching the natives to death. With Huey and Hinkley out of the way, and Arthur Shreve released, it looks as if the Braves would have to pitch this afternoon, and Pete Donohue tomorrow.

The Braves may still figure heavily in the ultimate disposition of the pennant, however. Now that the race has tightened, so that the fourth place Giants are considered a half game ahead of the leading Red Sox, and a half game ahead of the leading Cubs, any series is important.

And the Braves still play one series with each of the clubs. They may make history on their next Western trip, though they will not be intimately concerned. They have already made the race close. They stopped a runaway when they took three in a row from the Cubs.

That just cracked the confidence of the natives, and before they know it they may be thinking of how much they can get out of the city series with the White Sox.

The Giants, who have been playing better ball than any other team in the league, may not be so sure of their position as they were a few weeks ago. They won 700 per cent of their games in the West and hailed themselves back into the race.

The finish of the race is still a month away, and much can happen in that time. It's a cinch, though, that the Braves have stirred up a good common opinion in Boston recently. They have been up to packed houses on the road.

That will help to make the race a financial success for them, and they will be a lot of playing changes before another season rolls around. You can make a book on that one.

Guy Morrison, the Waterbury teacher purchased by the Braves, reports tomorrow.

This big right hander has won 16 games and lost only seven with a .250 place club, and the scouts have put their bets on him. The Braves took him away from several other big league clubs, and he is in 23, if he has the stuff.

Hugh McCulligan will take a shot at it this afternoon, having come from the Reds. He is generally doing well against the Reds and the Braves, and he is a good pitcher. He is a good pitcher. He is a good pitcher.

George Chapman, Charlie Yerkes, Frankie Kestner, and Francisco Zucchetti are all in the race.

George Chapman is the ruling favorite to win "Chapman" has been named the titular races at Revere.

Once this quietest gets under way, it should be some thrilling racing.

World's Greatest Swimmers in Toronto Race

CHARLES JOHNSON

Raymond N. Chandler, landscape gardener at the Country Day School, and Charles Johnson, a schoolboy of Santa Monica, Cal., and the son of Ernest H. Johnson, a Boston broker, are among the entrants for the $5000 Toronto swim marathon, part of the Canadian national exhibition to-morrow.

This event, hailed as the fresh-water championship of the world, has drawn to the shores of Lake Ontario practically all of the great distance swimmers of the world. George Young, Jr., who swam into fame and fortune when he won the original "Wrigley marathon" at Catalina Island, will be favorite, but he will face opposition of the steepest sort.

Ernest H. Johnson, a Boston broker, is among the entrants for the $5000 Toronto swim marathon, part of the Canadian national exhibition to-morrow.

But confidence belongs to all, and young Johnson has his share. "Unless the cold water bothers me more than I expect it will, I will win that Toronto swim," he declares earnestly. Though only in high school, the youngster is a powerful swimmer, having taken up the sport upon the advice of his doctor. He has been training under Irving J. Peters of Santa Monica. The Toronto swim covers a course of 22½ miles, and Johnson, who has already navigated successfully a distance of 18 miles, fears only the cold water. And, he said, he doesn't fear that much.

He is 17, stands 5 feet 9 inches, weighs 100 pounds and played football on the Venice High School football team last fall.

Chandler, the gardener, however, is more of a veteran, being 25 years of age.

He has been swimming since the age of eight, and did considerable long-distance work while serving with the army in Panama. The Toronto marathon will be his first competition against the big swimmers, but he, like Johnson, is confident of pulling in among the prize winners.

Chandler was his own trainer and made the trip to Canada alone. Henry Sullivan of Lowell and Charlie Toth, of Street Broude, are two other entrants whose progress will be closely followed by local swim fans.

Sullivan is well acquainted with fresh water, his first aquatic triumphs having been achieved in the Merrimack River; he is also noted for his ability to remain long hours in the coldest of waters.

Toth has done most of his swimming in salt water, but he expects no difficulty at Toronto.

Both men have been successful in the English Channel swim, while Sullivan also completed the Catalina marathon.

JACK DEMPSEY Tells of Comeback

Challenger's Sparring Partners Always Seek a K. O. So That Heavies Have Hard Time to Keep Themselves Upright, Says Dempsey

(Copyright 1927, New Features Syndicate, Inc.)
DID you ever stop to consider what a lot of chances a champion or near-champion takes by mixing it with a procession of strange partners?

The public has heard that Jack Dempsey is just a collection of "hums" from out of the groups of "has-beens" or "never-was-ers." And most of them are. But they are all in the ring against a champ or a near-champ with or without a title.

It is a fact that Dempsey has been in the ring for over a year, and has won every fight he has had. He has been in the ring for over a year, and has won every fight he has had. He has been in the ring for over a year, and has won every fight he has had.

Tilden's Vitality and Spirit Amazes Fans

There are two champions who must derive their inspiration from the "well-known brook," Bill Tilden and Bobby Jones. Someday perhaps they will be decisively beaten, but a confidence seems to be a far look into the future.

Looking Up

The New England Council Calls a Meeting

Quick to do the right thing at the proper moment the New England Council has called a New England aviation conference, to be held on Friday, September 30, at the Hotel Statler.

The aviation show, to be held in Mechanics Building in conjunction with the annual Radio Exposition, will be drawing to a close. Along with this show numerous flying events have been planned for Boston Airport. Arrangements for the handling of sightseers in short "joy hops" over the city are being made by the Airport Corporation, the Demmon Aircraft Company and other operators.

In such a setting and with the community discussing aviation more seriously than ever before the Committee on Public Relations and Community Organization of the Council is to bring together those who are interested for the purpose of discussing the most effective methods of promoting:

- 1.—The building of airports in New England communities.
- 2.—Manufacturing for the aviation industry.
- 3.—The use of aviation by industry, business and individuals.

Should the airport be a commercial enterprise or should the city own it? How big should it be and how accessible? How should it be financed and what may be expected in the way of earnings?

Following Col. Lindbergh's marvellous flight to France we read that manufacturers in Gloucester and other parts of the State had contributed to the "parts" of his motor. What other things can New England contribute to the industry?

Buying an airplane has become a matter almost as everyday as purchasing a new car. Already there are more airplane manufacturers than makers of motorcars. Planes are as cheap as automobiles and like them can be bought "on time." A rush of pupils to the New England flying schools is reported and since Lindbergh's historic crossing the Department of Commerce at Washington has been swamped by applications for pilots' licenses.

The conference set for the last day of September is certain to produce good results. When facts and figures are set down, or on the subject of airports built, building and projected, it is not unlikely to appear that in this respect at least New England is trailing no other section in practical interest in the subject of the hour.

A Modest Tunisian Lady Washing

WASH DAY IN TUNIS.

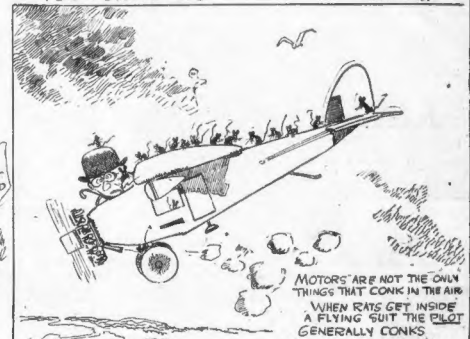

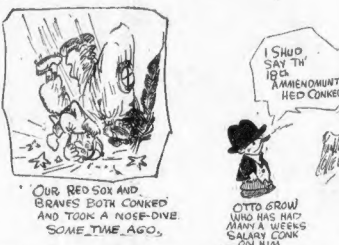

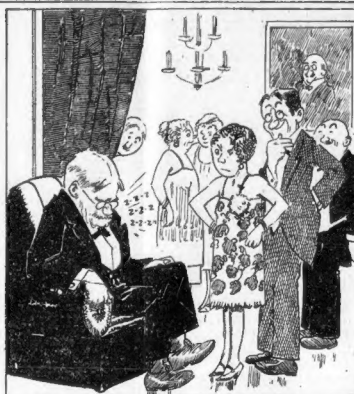

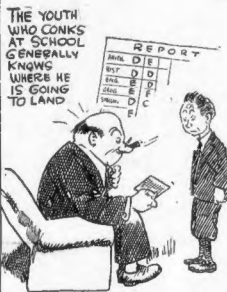

This lady, living on the northern coast of Africa, shows the hold of old ideas and IMITATION modesty on tens of millions of us humans.

She comes probably of half Arab, half Berber stock, and has been taught from babyhood that it is a disgrace to let any strange man see her face. She does her washing, probably, in the brook, and hangs up her clothes as you see her here, with her face covered, so that she can scarcely breathe. Under the hot sun of north Africa you can imagine what that must be.

Ancient superstitions are powerful; you see it among our own highly intelligent people. Let ten of them ap-

Conking Is Nothing New

TRUST IS NEEDED IN ALL CONFERENCES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE only way to get along in an international conference between representatives of the various nations is to follow the common sense rules that govern conferences of individuals.

The one thing that disturbs the prospects of arriving at one's conclusion between the various nations is the same thing that disturbs the hope of a satisfactory result between different men.

If capitalists and laborers could sit down at a table and banish all hatred and suspicion of one another there would be no trouble in coming to a satisfactory conclusion. The laborer, however, thinks the capitalist too shrewd and always on the lookout to get the advantage of him; the capitalist thinks the laborer ignorant and prejudiced; this prevents arriving at an amicable result.

You cannot have a conference between two or more people and expect a happy conclusion unless you trust one another, unless there is mutual respect.

It is a common failing of every nation to suspect other nations of being shrewder than themselves, wiler and craftier and more selfish.

Each nation regards its own representatives as honest and straightforward dealers and thinks others are crooked. Many papers and many so-called patriots do their best to fan this delusion. Many of them seem to think they are patriots when they suspect every move of the opposite nation.

Trust and belief are not mere Sunday school things, but they are necessary in all our intercourse with one another. Diplomats as well as individuals must be high-minded and considerate.

The question of reducing armaments is one that concerns the economic prosperity of every nation. Armed forces continue to be the chief source of expenditure all around and it is worth while to get together on the subject of mutual reduction.

It is all a matter of proportion, anyway. It is just as bad and no worse for a nation to have 400,000 tons of ships against another nation's 300,000 as it is to have 40 tons against the other nation's 30 tons. It is a matter of preponderance and it is worth all the endeavor of all high-minded patriots to get together with the representatives of other nations and reduce the amount of armament.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

The education of children is a trust, and how happy we might be if one were without it—Angier.
—Rousseau.
The true use of speech is not so much to express our wants as to smooth them—Oliver Goldsmith.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ADMIRE Lady Nancy Astor. She has spunk. She had one of her rows in the House of Commons the other day. Her own party, the Tories, had failed to endorse a certain recommendation which would have raised the compulsory school age from fifteen to sixteen, thus giving the children of the poor the same educational privileges as those of the rich. And for twenty heated minutes Lady Nancy freed her mind.

"I DO NOT GO SO FAR AS TO SAY THAT ALL PEOPLE ARE BORN EQUAL," she cried. "DO YOU THINK THAT IT IS APPOINTED NOT TO GIVE THEM ALL AN EQUAL CHANCE?"

ALL PEOPLE ARE NOT BORN EQUAL—there's a brave, honest statement and one which needs extensive broadcasting in this country. Most of us won't like to face it.

We prefer to accept that ancient platitude which insists that all men are born free and equal.

We like that platitude for two reasons. First because it flatters our national vanity. Second, because it provides an excellent excuse for not doing our duty by less fortunate people.

It's their own fault if they haven't made good. "Here in this wonderful country everyone has the same start at birth. Why, any boy can be President if he had taken advantage of his opportunities as we have of ours—if they had worked and saved and planned wisely, they'd be where we are today. But they haven't. They've been wasteful and silly and lazy. Instead of digging in and hustling they have spent their time loafing and being sorry for themselves. No wonder they haven't gotten ahead. But it's their own fault—don't blame us."

And, having scouted our consciences and saved our faces with such reasoning, we go on our comfortable way.

America is a great, rich, beautiful and with amazing opportunities. But all children are NOT born free and equal. Not can every boy be President. Many, many children, born in America, live just as crust handmaids as they would face if born in the most laggard corner of the old world, and are as certainly doomed to degradation.

What "freedom" can a child know whose body is warped and whose mind is tainted from birth, who is reared by deficient and often deficient parents, who knows only hunger and filth and squalor from the moment it enters the world?

How can you possibly believe that such a child has an equal chance with the child of healthy, intelligent parents, reared in a comfortable home of good standing and high ideals?

BOSTON DAY-BY-DAY

MANY a Western Union and Fidelity National messenger boy has wondered at the liberal tip given by some Boston business men. The reason is that some of Boston's biggest men made their start in business by working as messenger boys, while others of their time are still lagging along the route. Charles F. Glidden, telephone and automobile pioneer, started his business career by carrying telegrams in Lowell.

Courtesy is one of the watchwords in the office of Charles G. Burleigh, advertising manager for the General Electric Company on State street. And what this big and genial fellow doesn't know about New England products and marketing them in all sections of the United States, is not worth knowing. His handshake and invitation to be seated at his desk, pave the way for mighty pleasant chats for his visitors.

Under Difficulties

proach a ladder leaning against a wall. All ten will tell you that they are not superstitious, but at least eight or nine will be careful NOT to walk under the ladder. And if anything should happen to the one that DID walk under such a ladder he would probably say to himself, "It was that ladder; serves me right."

Superstitions, taboos, nearly all, had some useful beginning, but they hang on when the use has long disappeared. In the islands of the Pacific every boat is "taboo" to all women. She considers it deadly poison to touch a canoe, mental poison, at least. That idea was invented to keep women from running away from their husbands to some other island and some other man.

Outside "barbarians" invading China and conquering that old civilization compelled young girls and girl babies to squeeze their feet in tight shoes; that was to prevent their running away. They compelled the men to let their hair grow long, in "queues" or pig-tails. That was for the convenience of the conquerors; the pig-tail gave them something to take hold of when they wanted to cut off the Chinese gentleman's head.

After a few generations the Chinese forgot why they squeezed the girls' feet, and why they let their pig-tails grow, and felt disgraced, if they belonged to the upper classes, and girls didn't have squeezed feet, or the men lacked pig-tails.

This Tunisian washwoman works and lives half superstitious, and sincerely believes that it would be a crime, a mortal offense, to Allah, whose prophet is Mohammed, if she let any passing man see her face. In all probability they wouldn't see very much, in any case. Such are we, feeble, superstitious mortals.
